Jesus has questions for you

Lent is the 40 days before Easter. You can follow along on Jesus' journey to Jerusalem!

Describe any "us and them" situations in your life.

Which books of the bible do we get from the early churches of Corinth, Galatia and Ephesus?

WOAH - Hyperbole!

Hyperbole is when you exaggerate to get your point across. I'm starving! My backpack weighs a ton! I've been waiting for you for a million years! What hyperbole did Jesus use?

What was happening in the early church?

Awesome-Salt!

Choose the things that salt represented to the people in bible times.

- An ingredient in desserts
- A preservative
- A symbol of relationship between God & people
- A symbol of sports because of sweating
- "Surfs up dude"
- Salt = life
- Destruction, things can't grow where salt is

How did salt in bible times lose it's saltiness?

Salt is pretty strong! He knows who he is! Jesus wanted his disciples to understand who they were: They are his followers! If you've decided to follow Jesus, you are a disciple too - you get to be salt in the world too! What can you do to be a disciple today?

Try-it-later!

- Make your own ocean water: Mix 2 tablespoons of salt into 1 litre of warm water. Make sure you mix until completely dissolved. You can use some math to figure out how much ocean water the Israelites would have needed to get your whole box of salt from the store!
- Growing a bean: put a bean in a damp paper towel by the window, make sure you keep the towel damp. Put another bean in a paper towel that has your ocean (salty) water on it. Which bean sprouts (takes about a week)? I bet you can guess even if you don't try it!
- Have you ever tried jerky? If jerky is meat why doesn't it need to be in the fridge section?
